METHODIST CHURCH.

The Third Provincial Conference of the Methodist Church in British Columbia.

The Proceedings on Thursday and Friday—Earnest Discussions, Etc.

EVENING SESSION—THURSDAY.

The evening session of the Conference was opened in the usual way, the President in the chair. He said the present Conference seems to be a series of disappointments referring again to the absence of the speakers who were to be present. Notwithstanding this fact, the meetings had all been swimming successes. A large congregation of the people of Victoria was present and the evening meetings are increasing in interest. He then called upon Rev. T. W. Hall, of Chilliwhack to address the meeting.

Mr. Hall would endeavor to contribute what he could to the entertainment and instruction. He was glad he was not filling any other man's place. He said monasticism and its days are past. Hermits days are past, but the days of missionary work are not past nor ever will be. This work is no new departure, but older than the Christianity which we believe. Our Lord Jesus Christ was the greatest and grandest missionary the world ever knew. Ever since he gave the great commission to his disciples, obedience to his command has been the work of the true minister. The character and work of the minister of Christ were then dwelt upon. We can all be imitators of the model missionary if we cannot be models ourselves. In the Apostle Paul we have all the example we need—from the very day on which he stagnoied under the glory of God to the very last day of his death, a model minister of Christ. Ever since his day, too, there have been grand men to go out in answer to the question of God to say: "Here am I, send me." He here enumerated a long list of missionaries down to Wesley, Coke and Young, George McDougall and others. And are they all gone? Are there no more heroes? No! They are not all gone. Ontario, Quebec and the interior of British Columbia have men who are possessed of as large hearts and true as any. The work was then referred to and the speaker said the field was the world. What is there in the world that teaches men immortality, or even to know God, unless it be Christianity and the Gospel! Nothing will lift up men, nothing will elevate, either bond or free, black or white, unless it be the Gospel. Philosophy may do much for some men, but the Gospel will reach and benefit all. We are told there are six hundred million souls that have not yet heard the Gospel. How much will it cost to carry it to those 600,000,000 souls. Rather talk about the money that is not given than that which is given to such work. The money spent in whisky and tobacco would soon do what was required. A calculation was then entered into, showing what might be done in this direction. He quoted Dr. Talmage as saying that by the year 1900 every soul in the world may hear the Gospel, and said that was his opinion. He said the Westminster District leads in the British Columbia Conference this year, and raised $653.00. He urged a liberal collection.

Rev. W. H. Pierce (native missionary) was the next speaker. He said he felt afraid this evening when he heard the President announce the absence of some of the speakers. It reminded him of the three fellows in the Gospel who had excuses. Here, said he, we have the very same thing among the ministers. The Indian says he does not know one-half what white people know about God. Before the Gospel was carried to them they worshipped the sun, moon, stars and mountains. You have your courts, judges, juries, etc., in the settlement of your difficulties, but the Indian settled his difficulties with the scalping knife. The Indian is better to-day than two years ago. Don't ask where the money goes but look at the fruit being done among the natives. He exhorted young people to give themselves to missionary work. The Indians are like a people cast upon a sea and the Gospel ship with Jesus for captain, and Christian people are the crew. What are you doing? Some of you people don't like the Indian because he isn't a white man, and some because he is ignorant and doesn't know Latin or Greek. But while he couldn't read Latin and Greek he could read his title clear to the Heavenly Kingdom. Eighteen years ago he worshipped the sun. He prayed "O, God the sun! O, God the moon! lead me in the way of peace." But he doesn't pray so to-day. He said, if you want to kill your church, starve out its missionary effort. He felt an interest in the Chinese mission and begged an enthusiastic attention of every Christian to the blessed work of saving souls. He is to-day preaching the Gospel to his own people and he receives his commission not from an earthly power but from on high. Away up in the Skeena we preach the same Gospel, sing the same hymns, and we feel what we sing. We are forming a workers' band. Why are you white people hindered from doing the same things right here? He described the formation and work of this band up in the Skeena as it moves from tribe to tribe and the description was full of interest. "The missionary work," said he, "is the grandest work in the world," and missionary work is the only thing that will civilize the Indian. The Government spent much money in its endeavor to civilize the savage, but the cheapest and best way is in the grand old Gospel. Get the Indian converted from his head to his heart and you will make a man of him. He spoke of the brother who was to go to Japan. He said he had been told that the Japanese never die and said if the Indians are dying off so fast it is important that they should have the Gospel before they die. He too deplored the enforced absence of Dr. Carman. He didn't miss him so much for every night he slept in the Doctor's bed, he ate his dinner every day, but even that, said he, did not make him a doctor. He excused the absence of the Pandora street choir as the Doctor was not here. The speech was full of enthusiasm and earnestness, and the speaker retired amid much applause.

The collection was taken up at this stage of the meeting.

Captain John of Chilliwhack was then called on and was interpreted by Rev. C. M. Tate. He felt almost afraid to speak to an audience like this, and regretted that he was forced also to employ an interpreter. He then told how the Indian first heard the Gospel up on the Fraser. It was not in a Methodist Church, but by the ministrations of a Roman Catholic priest. Rev. T. Crosby was the first to introduce the Methodist view of the Gospel. The Catholic priest very soon visited him and told him he was making a fool of himself in listening to that man, threatened troops from the Pope and banishment to a treeless island where they should have no food and no possibility of escape.

Only three souls were converted at first, and it was a tough time for the Methodist Christians. The priest visited him frequently and explained the great danger in which he stood, trying to win him again to the Catholic Church. He eventually warned the other people against Captain John as he had become one of the devil's children. But Cant in John still remained faithful. He (Capt. John) appealed to the white people, and was soon comforted, and resolved to build a church. The threats of the priest did not affect him and the church was soon built. Soon the other Indians saw the change in John's life and he took advantage of this influence and preached the Gospel to them and the surrounding tribes. In a little while the chiefs of some of the surrounding tribes expressed their interest in him, resolving to watch his future, and if none of the priest's threats were carried into effect they in time would become Protestants. He has been much tried in his service of God, but has been very happy and spends his time in missionary work. From three converts one the work has increased to three hundred, and many others have gone to their final rest. His lot as a missionary is different from those who travel in steamboats, railway trains or carriages. His camping places none of the best, often not much to eat, but he is thankful to preach the Gospel even thus. He said the Indians watch the white people to know which is really the true church and asked how the hearts of the people present are in reference to God's work. He found great trouble in meeting his great enemy, the fire water. An Indian will get whisky if it can be got and he had hard work persuading his people to let it alone.

The speech was ingenious and well laid out.

Rev. J. Greenwood, of the British Wesleyan Conference, was introduced. He said that too many cooks spoil the broth, and as we had had some very good cooks this evening, and it being a late hour of the meeting, he would not detain them.

The services to-morrow evening will be of a special nature, being a reception service. Rev. C. Ladner of Kamloops, and Rev. A. E. Green of Nass will address the meeting.

MORNING SESSION—FRIDAY.

The conference re-assembled this morning, and after the opening exercises, a reading of the minutes, etc., the usual order was resumed.

A communication was received from W. J. Dowler, tendering his resignation and asking for the usual credentials, etc. Communication laid on the table.

A communication was received from Mr. Thomas Tromme, offering a plot of ground in Esquimalt for the erection of a Methodist church. The communication was referred to the committee on missions.

The report of the sustentation fund committee was read and Mr. N. Shakespeare laid before the conference a statement of the amount of money in the treasury, and explained the circumstances of the ministers having claims upon the fund. The amount in hand was so small that the committee were at a loss to know how to divide it. He thought that the ministers did not lay sufficient stress on the necessity of supporting this fund in making appeals to the people. He suggested that the members present be asked to respond to its needs right in this meeting. Considerable discussion followed as to the workability of this fund and as to the cases in hand requiring help. An appeal will be made to the conference for funds.

The committee on church property brought in a lengthy report. Report was referred back to committee for further examination.

The committee on temperance work brought in a lengthy report, containing several strong protests against the traffic in strong drink, and pledging the conference to renewed efforts in the direction of prohibition. The report was received and its clauses considered seriatim.

The clause "pledging the ministers and laity of the church to refuse to support any candidate for the suffrages of the people, who would directly or indirectly oppose prohibitory legislation," was objected to and was much discussed in the conference. Mr. N. Shakespeare claimed that the country is not prepared for total prohibition, though he is a prohibitionist. He claimed that if the moral sentiment of the people is not prepared to back up a prohibitory measure, it had better not be on the statute book. He could not conscientiously vote for this clause, for he thought that our great duty is to discover the best means workable for the advancement of temperance sentiment. He would rather for a legislation that would bring the people up to a temperance sentiment. He believed in a reduction of the number of licenses.

Mr. John Jessop could not stultify his right of franchise and this he could not do, though he is a thorough temperance man. He could not pledge himself to vote for a scalawag of a temperance man and deprive a comparatively good man of his vote simply because he would not pledge himself to vote for prohibition.

Rev. T. Crosby did not think that either the Scott Act or its defeat have hurt the country. It simply prepared the people for stiffer work. He quite believed in educating the people up to the sentiment of total abstinence. Preach, pray, speak it into them but

GET IT INTO THEM.

Rev. J. A. Wood appeared in support of the clause. He was sorry to hear such sentiments as the above. The principle of moral reform is not to wait until the people are reformed before you try to reform them. The clause was a very important one. This Conference is not composed of moonbacks or politicians, but the Methodist Church was as grand a factor in moral reform as ever existed. This very clause was taken from one of the reports of another conference and was passed by one of the most intelligent conferences in the Dominion. The Rev. Mr. Wood then waded through the remarks of the previous speakers and showed how temperance suffragists are not "scalawags." They are the grandest men that ever hiked for votes. It is high time that the Methodist church spoke out on this question and declared its position emphatically.

Rev. J. P. Bowell objected to the clause because it made politicians of us, and he objected to politics in church work. He did not want politicians coming to him and pledging themselves to the temperance cause and then going out to his neighbor and landing to all sorts of vice. He had no faith whatever in politicians and he rather recommended the ministers to carry out the principle of moral suasion. He would not pledge himself to vote for any man or any measure but urged the education of the people up to the proper point.

Mr. J. E. McMillan objected that the clause made no provision for a choice between two different men, and such should not be the case. He was in sympathy with the general spirit of the resolution but believed that some provision for such an exigency should be made. He believed in leaders being pledged to vote for the temperance measure. He was tired of men who wait to find how their political chief would vote and then put up their hand simply because the leader of the party does so. He claimed that the Methodist people should take a greater interest in favor of everything that would advance our interests and a temperance legislature would do that.

Mr. W. S. Hampson said that some prohibition has been talked of; temperance sentiment has advanced 50 per cent. and every act that restricts and limits

TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

A Wretched Viscount—Proceedings at the Parnell Commission.

Pacific Coast Defences Discussed in the House of Lords.

By Postal Telegraph.]

London, May 17.—In the House of Lords last night, Lord Dudley raised the question of Esquimalt's defences. Lord Elphinstone, on behalf of the Government, admitted the importance of the subject and said that last year's agreement between the Imperial and Dominion Governments had been modified. The Dominion Government, Lord Elphinstone said, finds it difficult and expensive to provide a garrison. The Imperial Government has therefore decided to provide a Royal Marine Artillery garrison under command of three officers, the annual maintenance charge being £7000 to the Dominion Government. The men and officers left three days ago for Esquimalt, with the exception of the submarine miners, who have not yet completed their drill and armament. Lord Elphinstone, in answer to a question, was unable to state exactly when the fortifications would be completed. Lord Dudley gave notice that he would not repeat the question when a reasonable time for the completion of the defences had elapsed. Very great importance is given to Esquimalt's defences by the British Government. The nature of the defences is kept a profound secret.

AFTER THE BANDITS.

Topeka, Kan., May 17.—A telegram has been received by General Manager Robinson, stating that the posse which is in pursuit of the two Mexican bandits who murdered Supt. Richard's yesterday at Cartage mines, are giving hot chase, the posse consisting of the sheriff, two deputies and six employees of the mines. Just before dark last night the bandits were almost overtaken at the foot of the mountains. The party was near enough to shoot. They wounded one of the men. The criminals succeeded in eluding their pursuers by hiding in a canyon. During the night they made their escape. One of the bags of silver of a value of $500, which the Mexicans captured after murdering the superintendent, was found this morning buried in the sand a few miles from Carthage. The murderers were fleeing on ponies and the silver became too heavy for them. They now have about $7,000 in currency. Two employees in the mines, supposed to be accomplices, have been arrested.

CRAFTY JOHN.

San Francisco, May 17.—Advices received here this morning show that Chinese are being smuggled across the Mexican boundary line, and there are several vessels running direct from Chinese ports to Lower California, carrying hundreds of Chinese, who enter the country. Customs officers are few and far between.

APPOINTED.

Washington, May 17.—The President to-day made the following appointment: Chas. Swayne, of Florida, to be United States District Judge for the northern district of Florida.

LOSS OF CARGO.

London, May 17.—The British ship Altinoa, which was wrecked on one of the Pearl Islands, while on her way to San Francisco, has gone to pieces. None of her cargo of coal can be saved.

BRILLIANT PARIS.

Paris, May 17.—The ruling ball, given at the new gallery of the Elysee for provincial visitors, was a brilliant affair. Eight thousand invitations having been given out the attendance was immense. The Eiffel tower and the facade of the exhibition buildings were illuminated for the occasion and made a splendid appearance.

ROYAL DEATH.

London, May 17.—Queen Mary, mother of the mad king, Ludwig and Otto, died at Munich early this morning of a complication of complaints.

"A WRETCHED" VISCOUNT.

London, May 17.—The preliminary trial of Viscount Mandeville, on a charge of fraud, was resumed to-day at the Clerkenwell Police Court. From a statement of counsel for the prosecution, it appears the Viscount, who is well-known in America, having married a New York lady, obtained in 1887, from one Tuck Apps, sums aggregating nearly $10,000 by false pretences. The defence is a general denial. Hearing of the case was not concluded to-day.

PARNELL COMMISSION.

London, May 17.—The Parnell Commission resumed its sittings to-day. Father O'Donovan, of Tulla, Ireland, testified that the Moonlighters of that place were opposed to the National League. They had threatened witness, who was under police protection, while he was connected with the National League there. He attributed the increase in crime in Ireland during the National League's existence to the action of the landlords in forcing evictions. Witness had denounced all resorts to violence from the altar for forty successive Sundays. The Commission, it is announced, will not report until February, 1890.

EARL DEAD.

London, May 17.—James Howard Harris, Earl of Malmesbury, is dead, aged 82.

MINISTER IN LONDON.

London, May 17.—The Hon. Thos. W. Palmer, of Michigan, Minister to Spain, arrived last night.

A THORN IN THEIR SIDE.

San Francisco, May 17.—The Examiner this morning, in a long editorial on the neglected fortifications of the Pacific coast, calls attention to the fact that the fortifications of Vancouver Island are a menace and a warning, and that if the Behring Sea dispute should bring about a war with England, as it might very easily, Vancouver Island, the Gibraltar of the American Continent, would be the base of operations against the commerce of San Francisco and a safe refuge for cruisers that might be chased home by the war vessels now being built on this coast.

Light rains are predicted for Oregon and Washington for the next 24 hours.

LOSS OF THE ALASKAN.

She Springs a Leak and Founders—Two Men Lost.

Astoria, May 16.—At noon to-day the steamer Columbia arrived from San Francisco with eight survivors of the side-wheel steamer Alaskan, which became a total wreck last Monday morning between two and three o'clock. The vessel struck heavy weather when she left the Columbia bar at noon last Saturday, and labored through the hurricane and heavy seas till ten miles off Cape Blanco, when a large leak was sprung just forward of the rudder. The upper works lifted and the water rushed in. All efforts to stop the leak were unsuccessful.

At 2.30 the vessel broke in two, when Engineer Swine and Steward Rahlo were drowned. Three life boats and a life raft were launched, and forty-three men aboard got into them. Twelve rockets were sent up to arrest the attention of the tug Vigilant, which was towing the big dredger to Tacoma. The Vigilant, however, could not abandon the dredger, as it had six men aboard. She, however, picked up five of the men who were in one of the boats. Two life boats and the life raft, with thirty six men are still unheard from.

NO TIDINGS.

San Francisco, May 17.—The steamer City of Puebla which arrived from Victoria this morning, reports not having seen any of the wreckage nor the missing boats of the steamer Alaskan, which was wrecked near Cape Blanco Monday.

SPORTING NEWS.

ABOUT YACHTING.

Linn H. Peck, consulting naval constructor U. S. Navy, writes to London Field to say that after seeing the Thistle and Volunteer out of water, he expressed the opinion to the sailing master of the Volunteer that his boat would win. His reasons were that the Volunteer had a better shape and lighter hull and greater sail carrying capacity, and that what she lacked in lateral resistance was made up by the centre board. Our boats beat because they are centre boards, and they are on the top of the water; we never consider it a fair race to race a centre board with a keel boat. And it is not, and you can never beat us at that kind of racing. You should demand that the race should be a keel boat with a keel boat, a centre board with a centre board. I have seen a centre board sow at San Francisco beat every sow in the fleet. I would never sail a keel boat against a centre board and consider it a fair race. I want to see a fair race—keel boat against keel boat, centre board against centre board. I think that not only should length and breadth of hulls be the same, but the mean draft of water amidships be alike, and the area of the midship section be also fixed as conditions of the race. When this is done, there may be some fairness in the race, and the skill of handling will tell. I think that the only fair race ever made in our waters was when keel boats raced with keel boats and centre boards with centre boards; and if you ever send any more boats over, your stipulations should have reference to my statement—i. e., if you wish to win.

CHAMPIONSHIP TROPHY.

Mr. Thos. Baker, Secretary Committee of the Victoria Baseball League:

SIR,—Understanding that your league is formed for the purpose of playing a series of games, to decide the baseball championship of the city, we beg to offer the silver cup now on exhibition at our store, as a trophy, to be handed to the captain of the club winning the League Championship for 1889. Yours truly,

PENNOCK & CLAYTON.

The cup mentioned is of very handsome design and is valued at $40. It will be an incentive to the clubs to play hard for the championship.

THE REGATTA.

THE SEATTLE NINE DECLINE.

A telegram was received to-day which say the Seattle nine are unwilling to play at Beacon Hill on the 24th. Arrangements will be made with either a Port Townsend or Portland club.

BOXING CONTEST AT ESQUIMALT.

Clem Austin and Prof. Foster, lightweight boxers, engaged in a six round glove contest, for points, at the Ship Inn, Esquimalt, last night. The contestants fought with six ounce gloves. Austin was declared the winner. At the conclusion of the match a bluejacket belonging to H. M. S. Amphion challenged Austin to a glove contest for points, the match to be twelve rounds or over. The challenge was accepted and final arrangements will be made on Monday next. A number of Provincial police officers were present.

WOLSELEY AND DAVIS.

Sir Garnet and Jeff Disagree on Confederacy Matters.

Nashville, Tenn., May 16—The American to-morrow will publish a letter from Jefferson Davis replying to Lord Wolseley's criticism of himself in the North American Review for May. The letter was written in response to a request from E. W. Cormack, editor of the American, and is dated at Beauvoir, Miss., May 8th. Mr. Davis says he can conceive of no reason for Wolseley's venom toward himself, as shown in an article published about a year ago, unless an "egregious vanity had been wounded by my failure to notice his presence in our country, a presence which it is most probable was to me unknown." Referring to the article in the May North American, Mr. Davis says: "Now having learned that facts are needful to sustain all allegations, he is free to use depreciatory remarks concerning me by libellous statements." Davis denied emphatically that he ever said ten thousand Enfield rifles would do for confederacy, or that he ever refused to receive 300,000 men offered for Confederate service, or that the East Indian fleet was offered him. Davis concludes with the declaration that there is ample evidence which he names, to show that prompt and energetic efforts were made to secure large importations of arms and ammunition of war for confederacy, and at the same time by the policy of enrolling only men who could be entitled to draw from the large amount of private arms in the south, weapons to supplement the deficiency when confederacy was organized.

THE REGATTA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

A great deal of disappointment is felt at the change made by the Celebration Committee in regard to the place where the regatta will be held. Victoria harbor was selected and the programmes were published advertising that fact. A large amount of money was subscribed by the hotel keepers and others to keep the people in the city. The courses practiced over the harbor course, and all arrangements were made by citizens to spend at least a portion of one day near their homes. It is a shame to have the regatta on the Arm, where only those in easy circumstances can afford to take their wives and families. PLEASANT.

A man named Pierre Morin, aged 40 years, and a young boy, 10 years old, were drowned in Metatotobonan harbor, five miles from Cambourd Station, Ont. The accident happened while they were going to see a net.

The mammoth pork packing establishment belonging to Walkes & Marlatt, at Aylmer, Ont., has been burned. The loss upon the buildings and contents is $90,000; insurance, about $25,000.

A boat containing three men upset at Barrie through the occupants charging places. One of them, George Myers, became benumbed and sank before assistance arrived.

An audit of the Kingston corporation books having been completed, shows the expenditures for 1888 to have been $124,684, a deficit of $109,274 for the year.

The residence of W. P. Innes, manager of the Simcoe canning factory, Simcoe, was burned. Loss, $4,000; insured for $2,000.

The rumor has again revived that Sir Andrew Bisaret, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Quebec, intends to ask for superannuation on the expiry of his present leave of absence.

THE QUEBEC FIRE.

Tragic Deaths of Major Short and Sergeant Wallack.

Special to THE TIMES.]

Quebec, May 17.—A terribly disastrous fire broke out in St. Sauveur, in the suburbs of this city, early yesterday morning. The fire spread with alarming rapidity, and the flames only stopped when the last house on the outside of the city was burned. Fully five hundred houses were burned and eight hundred families are homeless. At 7 o'clock, while the military were preparing to blow up some of the houses to check the spread of the flames, a premature explosion took place in one of the houses, killing Major Short and Sergeant Wallack of B Battery. Both were buried in the ruins. The body of Wallack was shortly afterwards recovered, horribly mangled. It was blown clean through the roof. Major Short's body was recovered about noon. One leg and one arm had been torn from the body by the explosion and were found at some distance from the trunk. The balance of the body was shattered into a thousand fragments. Major Short was at Cut Knife battle during the Northwest rebellion. The total loss is $600,000. The Dominion Government has placed the new armory and the old court house at the disposal of the victims of the fire. Premier Mercier and several other gentlemen have visited the scene and supplied poor people with food.

NEW WESTMINSTER.

The Unsavory Case of Alleged Abortion Still in Progress.

Special to THE TIMES.]

New Westminster, May 17.—At the Assizes on Thursday, Regina vs. Sullivan and Langin was continued. The examination of James Hogg was concluded about 3 o'clock p. m. His testimony was nearly a repetition of that given by him in the police court at Vancouver. Mrs. Hogg was then put on the stand and examined by Messrs. Hammersley and Eberts, counsels for the crown. The portion of the examination was concluded at 10 o'clock and court adjourned.

To-day court re-assembled at 10 a. m. and Mrs. Hogg was recalled and put under cross-examination by Theo. Davie. This examination is still in progress and is likely to last the whole of the evening. There has been as yet no new developments in the matter. In giving her evidence Mrs. Hogg seemed very firm and self-possessed all the forenoon, but the experienced and learned counsel seems to have succeeded in confusing her a little at times later on. Public curiosity in the proceedings runs high. The court room was crowded and a large number are outside watching a chance to gain an entrance. It is said that there are about forty witnesses yet to be examined and the trial is likely to last some days.

POLICE COURT.

[Before Hon. A. N. Richards, Q. C.]

Thomas Welsh, remanded from yesterday on a charge of stealing a watch was before the magistrate this morning.

Supt. Sheppard said he a certained that the man was working on the steamer Islander when the watch was stolen.

Welsh informed His Honor that he purchased the watch from a stranger who said he wanted to leave for Seattle.

The defendant was discharged.

Walter Sullivan was charged with attempting to rob the till of the Vancouver House on Yates street.

Sergt. Walker deposed that he arrested the prisoner yesterday morning on board the steamer Sardonyx; told prisoner the charge; he said he expected it; he said the newspapers reported that he stole $40; prisoner said he took $1.50 from the till and put it back again.

At this stage of the proceedings it was decided to charge Sullivan with larceny. The case was remanded until to-morrow to draw up a new information.

WM. TEMPLEMAN, Manager.

JUDICIAL TERRORISM.

If British Columbia newspapers are to continue to discharge their duty to the public, undeterred by intimidation and uninfluenced by abuse from high places, the time has arrived for a firm stand to be taken against the tyranny of the bench. The duty of a judge is commonly supposed to be to interpret the law, to administer justice, to punish transgressors, and to be "a praise and protection to them that do well." The functions of the press are not less important, and are equally well defined. And when either the press or the judiciary oversteps the bounds which the law and an intelligent public opinion have set to their prerogatives, the offender ought to be amenable to discipline. Judges are not more infallible on the bench than editors are in the sanctum. The constant reversals by a higher authority of the "judgments" of men vested only with a "petty, brief authority," prove their fallibility. A suit of broadcloth will not make every man a gentleman, nor does a "commission of the peace" confer upon its possessor a knowledge of law, far less the ability to expound it. A newspaper, in the course of its business, and without the slightest feeling of malice, publishes information which is construed by an aggrieved party to be libellous. It is dragged before the court and punished. A judge, sitting on a high pedestal as an impartial arbiter, may depart from the strict line of duty and utter atrocious slanders against the unfortunate defendant, impute unworthy motives, indulge in invidious personalities, or attack, by implication, the financial standing of an institution that has unwittingly incurred his displeasure, and the innocent victim of judicial wrath has simply to submit without protest to the indignity. He is even expected to turn the other cheek also. But the time, we repeat, has come to dispute the right of the bench to treat as common felons every unfortunate journalist appearing before the dreaded tribunal, and we therefore protest, in the name of British justice and on behalf of the honor and independence of the press of British Columbia, against a continuance of this species of judicial terrorism, and demand a reform of such flagrant abuse of power and position.

In awarding damages in THE TIMES case, Sir M. B. BEASIE used these words: "The amount of damages should be considered. The amount applied for ($5,000) would ruin the wretched paper. The amount of damages will be $500 and costs." The "wretched paper" might or might not be ruined by the loss of $5,000. It has surmounted many difficulties, and very probably will survive the remarks of chief justice, which have been very generally considered as prejudicial to its financial standing among a people upon whose voluntary support it has to rely for an existence. We dispute the right of Sir MATTHEW BEASIE to describe this journal as a "wretched paper." The term is an odious one. It was uncalled for and unprovoked by the article upon which proceedings had been taken, and which was before the bench when the opprobrious term was used. But the observation of the Judge on our inability to pay the damages, were he to award the full amount of the claim, is particularly offensive and calculated, if generally believed, to affect our business position and possibly seriously impair our credit. Statements of this kind from the bench of most countries have a far-reaching influence. The utterances of a Judge are powful for good or evil. Canadians, like all other British subjects, respect the bench; they accept as true every word that emanates therefrom, and it is one of their proudest boasts that the high-minded men who compose their judiciary are above evil-speaking in public or private. Any general departure from that belief would be a national disaster, and would tend to bring the administration of justice into contempt. It is because such a thing is possible here, and not because we are the latest victim of an undeserved assault, that we protest against the extra-judicial onslaughts which too frequently disgrace our hall of justice.

The merits of the libel cases of the Colonist and TIMES will be considered at another time. We are now dealing with the personal rather than the legal side of the Chief Justice's character. His law may sometimes be bad; but his manners are always worse, and we wish to correct the greater evil first. Public opinion has been aroused during the last few days as it never was aroused before, and it will be strange indeed if a determined line of action be not decided upon to curb the propensity of the Chief Justice for promiscuous abuse.

THE PRESS.

We are told that the novelist is industrious who turns out a novel a year, but that the minister, who preaches twice a Sunday, each time providing new matter, is the busier man. There is no doubt but that the man who preaches two sermons a week, and who undertakes to adorn them with ideas, has little time which he can really call his own. The conscientious, painstaking minister is always in search of ideas, and being compelled to reel them off twice a week, sometimes before he has a chance to mature them, finds his occupation difficult and not infrequently a cause of worry. But, if the minister excuses himself of being prosy on account of continued mental strain, what sympathy has he to extend to the editor of a daily paper, who turns off, say, a column and a half of matter, six days in the week, each day's work being equivalent to about half a sermon in bulk, which makes him the deliverer of three sermons a week, one more than the minister. Nor has the editor the advantage of the minister in point of subject matter, rather the reverse. The parson always has his Bible to take his text from; his topic all the time is pre-eminently a religious one, whereas the editor must discuss such matters as seem pertinent to the day of the issue of the paper itself, and discuss them off hand. Extempore composition comes the nearest to expressing the condition under which the editor of a daily paper writes. Day after day, week after week, the "grind" goes on, and if the editor is stupid sometimes, and frequently in error, he is promptly castigated by his "esteemed contemporary," or reproached or denounced as the case may be by the public. The editor, however, can stand a good deal of excoriation from professionals of his own ilk, but when "old subscriber" visits the sanctum and on the strength of a lacerated sensibility cancels his subscription, gratuitously remarking that somebody connected with the establishment is a fool, the editorial tail feathers drop. His vanity not only is hurt but his pocket. What a delectable job is the editor's; what a wretched creature he is anyhow! The minister repairs to his study, and undisturbed, save, perhaps, by the vocalisms of his posterity, which percolate through the interjacent partitions, works out his sermon. The editor is not troubled in this wise, but the cry for "copy" makes him start and sets the "wretched reporter's" teeth on edge. "Give us news," cries the public, "and in discussing the topics of the day, be careful not to step on our toes" Tooting one's own horn is not a pleasant duty, to even newspaper men, but with all due deference to the dictum of judges, and of men, whatever their occupation, the editor of a daily newspaper is the hardest worked, and is called upon to exercise discretion, more frequently than any other class of workers. This would be more endurable if it was understood and better appreciated, but it is not, and there are men in high places who stoop to misrepresent the motives of the press. The judge takes a week to render an opinion, the editor is required to play the oracle after five minutes' deliberation, or lag in the rapid march of progress. He is required to pass instantaneous judgment on passing events, and yet his errors are regarded as the outpourings of a venal spirit, and indeed such is the tendency to magnify his defects that there is a disposition to curtail free speech. But this feature of journalism does not properly come under the head of the subject we started out to discuss. In relating the multifarious duties of the editor, we need not drag in the argument that the press should not be muzzled. It is sufficient to know that there is hard work connected with the publishing of a daily paper, and that the only wonder is that, in the treatment of affairs generally, the performance is so unexceptionable as cause for complaint whether to these directly or indirectly concerned.

THE SCOTT ACT.

The Supreme Court of the United States has rendered a decision in the case of CHAE CHANG PING, appellant, vs. the Collector of the port of San Francisco, sustaining the latter and establishing the constitutionality of what is known as the SCOTT exclusion act. This is what Consul-General BEE has to say about it:

"There is a comity between nations," he said, "which should be respected. China has always considered this government her best friend, but while that friendship is now put to a test, I can safely say that she will not attempt retaliatory legislation. She is too dignified a nation.

"There are 30,000 return certificates issued and held in China, and had we not the Ping case, about one-third would have returned. There are 26,000 Chinese on the coast, and, according to my books, from 9,000 to 10,000 are leaving each year. If they cannot return in six or seven years the Chinese laborer will be a thing of the past.

"Several large Chinese firms are now closing up their business preparatory to leaving for China. Of course, China can issue certificates to her merchants, but for six years she has refused to do so, and discouraged immigration. She unquestionably will continue in her policy, and laborers will not receive, nor have they ever received, merchants' certificates on which to land in this port. Nothing can stop a Chinaman from going home when he gets ready. Five thousand have left since September 1st and about twenty-five have returned.

"You can say I find no fault with the decision. The people themselves will do that. The passage of the Scott act severs considerably of radicalism; and, if this coast had not been necessary to both sides in the presidential contest, the act would never have been thought o'."

This act, now found to be constitutional, there is little doubt but that its provisions will be carried out with unrelenting severity. The act was inspired by political necessity, and that same necessity will insure its active fulfillment to the letter. This state of things almost insures that Canada is to be the great haven of rest for the Chinese on this continent, and we venture to say that unless steps are taken to counteract it we shall have agitators by the score, and in fact a distinct political issue will be built up. As the old saying goes, "Time enough to talk to the devil when you meet him," and so we need not borrow trouble. The subject is one, however, which people will do well to ponder over.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—When you notice unpleasant sensations after eating, at once commence the use of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery, and your Dyspepsia will disappear. Mr. James Stanley, merchant, at Gustance, writes: "My wife has taken two bottles of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery for Dyspepsia, and it has done her more good than anything she has ever used."

—A little girl, busy in making a pair of worsted slippers, said to a young companion near her, "You're lucky, you are. Your papa has got only one leg."

—Jacob Lockman, Buffalo, N. Y., says he has been using Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for rheumatism; he had such a lame back he could not do anything, but one bottle has, to use his own expression "cured him up." He thinks it is the best thing in the market.

—Young Fitzclarence says he has only twenty-seven lady friends, and when his hat blew off in the street the other day he met every one of them before he captured it.

—It would be a gross injustice to confound that standard healing agent—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—with the ordinary nostrums, lotions and salves. They are oftentimes inflammatory and astringent. This oil is, on the contrary, eminently cooling and soothing when applied externally to relieve pain, and powerfully remedial when swallowed.

—One of the greatest annoyances that comes with a bad cold is the necessity of listening to the remedy everybody proposes you shall try to cure the cold.

—THE PROPER CHANNEL for escape from the system of impurities which would, if they remained, poison the blood, is through the bowels. When this outlet is obstructed it may be disencumbered with Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure, a remedy which regulates the system, invigorates digestion, and is pure and safe as well as effective. It cures all diseases arising from Impure Blood.

—Sizing Them Up.—Mrs. Gadd—"The new family next door to you must be purty well off; they've got a pianer." Mrs. Gabb—Hah! They don't own it; it's rented. "How d'ye know?" "By the way they hang on it."

AYER'S Sugar-Coated Cathartic PILLS,

If the Liver becomes torpid, if the bowels are constipated, or if the stomach fails to perform its functions properly, use Ayer's Pills. They are invaluable.

For some years I was a victim to Liver Complaint, in consequence of which I suffered from General Debility and Indigestion. A few boxes of Ayer's Pills restored me to perfect health.—W. T. Brightney, Henderson, W. Va.

For years I have relied more upon Ayer's Pills than anything else, to my bowels. These Pills are mild in action, and do their work thoroughly. I have used them, with good effect, in cases of Rheumatism and Dyspepsia.—G. F. Miller, Attleborough, Mass.

Ayer's Pills cured me of Stomach and Liver troubles, from which I had suffered for years. I consider them the best pills made, and would not be without them.—Morris Gates, Dewsville, N. Y.

I was attacked with Bilious Fever, which was followed by Jaundice, and was so dangerously ill that my friends despaired of my recovery. I commenced taking Ayer's Pills, and soon regained my customary strength and vigor.—John C. Pattison, Lowell, Nebraska.

Last spring I suffered greatly from a troublesome humor on my side. In spite of every effort to cure this eruption, it increased until the flesh became entirely raw. I was troubled, at the same time, with Indigestion, and distressing pains in

The Bowels.

By the advice of a friend I began taking Ayer's Pills. In a short time I was free from pain, my food digested properly, the sores on my body commenced healing, and, in less than one month, I was cured.—Samuel D. White, Atlanta, Ga.

I have long used Ayer's Pills, in my family, and believe them to be the best pills made.—S. C. Darden, Darden, Miss.

My wife and little girl were taken with Dysentery a few days ago, and I at once began giving them small doses of Ayer's Pills, thinking I would call a doctor if the disease became any worse. In a short time the bloody discharges stopped, all pain went away, and health was restored.—Theodore Rolling, Richmond, Va. tf

FLAGELLATION.

A History of Flogging as a Punishment.

WHIPPING AS AN AMUSEMENT.

Curious Ways of Applying the Lash in Europe—The Russian Knout—Whipping Generally Prevalent in the Old World. The Fearful Punishment of Mme. Lappchine.

O ye who teach the ingenuous youth of nations,
Holland, France, England, Germany or Spain,
I pray ye flog them upon all occasions,
It needs their morals; never mind the pain.

When Byron wrote this, seventy years ago, it is said that there was an epidemic of flogging all over the continent. In the mirk of the sentimentico-mushico period which prevailed on the continent during the first part of this century the custom of flagellation had been dispensed with. But when it was revived, early in the '80s, it was revived with a vengeance, and public flogging became so common, especially in Spain and Germany, that it wouldn't draw a crowd.

WHIPPING IN DELAWARE.

The flogging here referred to does not mean that domestic spanking administered with the hair brush or slipper. You have all doubtless come home with your hair wet and suspicious patches of mud on your jacket, and have had a drum solo played upon a certain part of your anatomy with a hair brush by a fond parent. But of course you have never been stripped on the bare back in the presence of a large audience of joyful spectators. There is only one state in the United States where flogging is administered to the refractory, and that is Delaware.

FLOGGING NO NEW THING.

Flagellation is almost as ancient as the world. History cannot trace the advent of flogging. The Egyptians had the art of bastinadoing down to a fine point. The Chinese were tremendously fond of tying an offender up in an outrageous position and making rainbows on different parts of his person, and they do it to this day, although in the land of flowery the more unique and exquisite modes of torture have largely superseded the bastinado.

When they want to punish a man in China they have his ultimate death in view—when they are through having fun with him.

THE KNOUTING OF MME. LAPPCHINE.

A momentous dispute agitated the learned world at one period as to whether whipping as a penance or whipping as a punishment was first introduced. The various methods of doing penance were at first all comprehended under the term "disciplines." Some penitents bestowed the blows on the backs and shoulders, which was called the "upper discipline," others preferred what was termed the "lower discipline." The difference between the two will be obvious.

The practice of flogging is now generally prevalent throughout Europe, but in Denmark, in the Seventeenth century, it was made a matter of amusement to the court. At the end of every hunting match at court, in order to whoop things up at the conclusion of the entertainment, persons who had infringed the known game laws were brought forth and made to kneel down between the horns of the stag that had been killed; two of the gentlemen removed the skirts of his coat, when the king, taking a long, stout wand in his hand, would everlastingly thump that portion of the culprit where his coat tails ought to have been.

What a humorous king! What a ghoulish glee for kings!

In Turkey a verberation on the breach was the common chastisement inflicted either on the Janissaries or Spahis.

PRISON POST AND ROD, KNOUT AND SPATULA.

Among the Spaniards it was formerly common for some good friar to answer for the sins of the whole parish, and, according as he had been fed for that purpose, flogged himself, or at least told his customers that he had done so.

At the Cape of Good Hope the Dutch used to flog for the offense of smoking on the streets.

Flagellation is frequently mentioned in biblical history. It is first mentioned in the fifth chapter of Exodus, where the sacred historian informs us that Pharaoh flagellated the Israelites. Under the old law of Moses adulterers were scourged, and there are frequent passages in Scripture which tell how whipping with rods, whips, etc., was universal in times of old. Five hundred years after Christ the Jews used to lash one another with scourges.

WHIPPING IN PRISON.

Flogging in prisons was, until about a decade ago, universal throughout the world. The lash was given as an additional punishment to imprisonment. Throughout Europe soldiers used to run the gauntlet; immoral women were whipped at the corners of the streets; women or girls of low bad character were whipped in houses of correction. In the barbarous galleys of the beginning of the present century the culprits, naked to the loins, were frightfully flagellated with rods. In Holland culprits were put in the pillory and scourged in the open market place with rods made of long broom corn. It is only recently that the stern Dutch abolished the public whipping of women. In Germany and Switzerland the magistrates ordered whipping with a cane for the slightest offenses. In the Sixteenth century the tenets of the Quakers were so obnoxious to the church party that "the Friends" were frequently flogged in the public squares of London. These whippings were extremely cruel, the victims frequently dying under the lash. Whipping men and women tied to the end of a moving cart was also very frequent in the Eighteenth century.

WHIPPING AS A REMEDY.

In some ailments it used to be thought that the rod was possessed of valuable healing properties! An eccentric old doctor in the Eighteenth century declared that there was nothing like the rod as a universal specific, that it stirred up the stagnating juices, dissolved the precipitating salts, purified the coagulating humors of the body, cleared the brain, purged the stomach, and was, in fact, a cure-all.

Russia, the land of the unspeakable czar, despotic and most barbaric country as it has ever been, was par excellence the land of the whip and rod, for, from time immemorial, the Russians have been governed by the lash. Not only this, but they have the "pest," which is a piece of iron made hot and put into a heated iron box, to be taken up and held by the victim. Then they have the knout, a Tartar invention, and the most formidable punisher ever invented by the ingenuity of man. It is a heavy leather thong about eight feet long, attached to a handle two feet long, the lash being about the breadth of a broad tape, and curved so as to give two sharp edges along its entire length; it is sometimes bound with a wire thread, the end terminating in a little hook. At each blow the sharp edges cut into the flesh like a flexible double edged sword, and as the lash is drawn away the hook at the end tears out a thin strip of flesh. When Elizabeth was empress of Russia she ordered the beautiful lady of the court, Mme. Lapuchine, knouted. Not only was the skin taken from her back, but her tongue was cut out, and she was then banished to Siberia. She survived these horrors—tortures that have often killed men of the strongest constitution.

THE SLAYER OF KING.

Portrait of Elizabeth Beechler, Who Refused to Be Discarded.

Following is the graphic account of the shooting at Omaha of H. W. King, Jr., given by Miss Elizabeth Beechler, the woman who killed him and with whom he had lived. She made the statement immediately after she had committed the murder. The portrait herewith presented is from The Chicago Tribune:

"I left Chicago yesterday," she said, "with the best of intentions in my heart. Arriving in Omaha, I inquired where Harry was living, and was told he was boarding at the Paxton. I had been told by a lady on the train whom I happened to meet that Harry was married, but supposed that I was the only wife. I then went to the hotel and registered as Mrs. Elizabeth M. King, and asked for Harry's room. The clerk told me that it was No. 63, and I went upstairs, I think to the third floor. In the meantime I had asked for a room adjoining Harry's, but was told that I could not have it until later in the day. I wanted to be close to them, or on the same floor at least, so I could watch their movements. I supposed that his wife was with him, but when I rapped at his door I did not hear any voices or talking on the inside. I rapped several times before there was a response. Finally Harry came to the door in his night clothes, and sticking his head out asked what was wanted. I said: 'Good morning, Harry; you were not expecting to see me, were you?' He replied: 'Oh, and I don't care to see you,' and shut the door in my face.

ELIZABETH BEECHLER.

"My heart sank for a moment, and I did, not know what to do. Again I said that I must see him, and he said: 'Go down in the parlor and wait until I get dressed.' I replied that I would wait there, and I did. In about twenty minutes he came out, and we walked to the elevator together. Getting in the elevator, we descended to the parlor floor, where we had a conversation. At first we were seated. I asked Harry to take me down to breakfast. He said he did not want any breakfast, and for me to go on down to the dining room alone, as he had to go to the store. I insisted on his going to breakfast with me, but he blankly refused and arose to his feet to go. I said: 'Harry, you are my lawful husband, and I have a right to demand your company to breakfast.' He said: 'Shut up! There's a girl and she'll hear you.' I said: 'I don't care who hears me.' At this he grasped at my throat and, grating his teeth, said: 'I could choke you off right here.' I then shoved him back and fired. The first shot I fired took effect in his side, I think, for he turned pale and clasped his hand on his hip. After that I was so excited that I hardly remember just what did take place. I shot several times more, but don't know exactly how many. After the first shot Harry ran around the corner of the elevator and started down stairs. At this time we were standing at the platform of the elevator. As Harry reached the head of the stairs I was close behind him, and shot re peatedly. When I saw him fall on the stairway and saw the blood oozing from his mouth, I rushed to him and laid his head in my arms, where he breathed his last. Just before leaving Chicago," continued Miss Beechler, "I telegraphed MacDuffy's mother the situation her daughter was in. The telegram cost me $3.50. The poor girl's mother will be heartbroken when she hears the sad news," and here the woman broke completely down in tears and sobs.

A Climbing Maine Belle.

Miss Belle Meader came down to Skowhegan from Norridgewock county recently for the especial purpose of climbing to the top of the water works stand-pipe. The distance to the top is seventy-five feet, ascended by means of an iron ladder fixed perpendicularly on the side. The young lady safely accomplished the feat, which shows, when it is considered that she looked down to Water street, 175 feet below, that she possessed a remarkably cool and clear head.—Lewiston Journal.

CONNECTICUT'S LEATHER MAN.

His History Has Been a Singular One and His Career Is Near Its Close.

For twenty-five years western Connecticut and the adjacent sections of New York have had a "wild man." At first a terror to the timid, and especially to children whose mothers used to threaten them with the "Old Leather Man" if they were naughty, he soon became an object only of pity and curiosity; for he never spoke and never harmed human or animal. He was never known to sleep in a house except in the rare instances when he was arrested and detained a few days by the authorities in charge of the poor. He wore nothing but leather, fashioned into rude garments by himself, slept in caves in bad weather and in the woods in fair weather; his only utterance was a word that sounded like "wer-r-rum," and he ate sparingly of such food as the charitably disposed gave him.

THE LEATHER MAN.

Strangers generally supposed him to be of Indian blood, for he was so swarthy; but old residents say that he was quite fair when they first saw him. All attempts to discover his origin had ceased, when the "blizzard" of last March set in motion an inquiry which solved the mystery. He was found almost dead with cold; pneumonia resulted and when almost at the point of death he became rational—not an uncommon thing with people of disordered intellects. A full account of him was published, which attracted the attention of parties in France and led to his complete identification and this strange history:

His name is Jules Bourglay, a native of Lyons, France, and he is but 55 years old, though he looks 70. When a youth he fell in love with the daughter of a wealthy leather merchant, who was induced to give him a trial in that business, with the promise that if successful he should marry his sweetheart. He devoted himself earnestly to the business, and engaged heavily in speculative investments just before the crash of 1857. Leather declined 40 per cent in value almost in a day; his prospective father-in-law was ruined, and drove the young man away with bitter curses for having so heavily involved the firm. He became a maniac, and after two years in the asylum was discharged as incurable but harmless. He soon disappeared, and all trace of him was lost for a time; but it was eventually discovered that he had reached Connecticut. Proofs of the identity of Jules Bourglay and the "Old Leather Man" were complete. But with the return of comparative health, his mania returned; he escaped from the hospital and is again a wanderer.

IRVING VS. WELLS.

A Poetess and Her Suit Against a Former Friend.

Minna Irving, the poetess of Tarrytown, N. Y., whose verses in the various magazines have attracted some attention for their erotic tendencies, has entered suit for $50,000 damages for slander against a young man named Palmer Wells, of New York city. She claims that Wells has written slanderous letters about her to her publishers, and though Wells is only a stenographer on a salary she thinks she has been injured $50,000 worth. Of course she doesn't expect to get the cash in case she wins, but the thing will be exciting and will cause a sensation, and if there is anything for which Minna's soul always yearns it is a sensation. She generally manages to score up a sensation of some kind about twice a year. She sent the following item to The New York World not long ago, but, as can easily be seen, she didn't intend to have her name signed to it:

MINNA IRVING.

To the Editor of The World:

Miss Minna Irving, The Century poetess, who lives at Tarrytown, looks at the solitaire diamond ring, engraved with the initials C. S. P. to M. I., on her left hand, and weeps today, for the name of Charles Porter, the handsome young civil engineer to whom she was engaged to be married in March, appears in the long list of those who perished in the great storm at Lake Byron, N. Y., last week. When the sad news was brought her on Monday night she was dressing for a gay party of visitors. She at once refused to see her friends, and taking off her pink silk dress and her jewels, retaining only the pledge of betrothal, she attired herself in the somber robes of mourning.

PALMER WELLS.

MINNA IRVING.

Miss Irving persistently denies herself to even her most intimate friends, and is said to be prostrated with grief.

Miss Irving is tall and slender. She has a pretty face, her features being regular, and when she smiles she discloses a row of pearl white teeth. Her hair is brown and her eyes are azure blue. Altogether Miss Irving is a beautiful young woman, and her accomplishments are many. Some ungenerous writer said the other day that Minna had to pay the magazine publishers to print her matter. But this cannot be so, for the simple reason that there are no magazines which take matter on these terms.

Remarkable Things Accomplished by Improved Methods.

The peculiar rhythmical effects which accompany discharges of powder and nitro glycerine compounds, says Professor Trowbridge in "Scribner's" for May, have been elaborately investigated by the aid of photography. It has also been suggested that careful photographs taken of steel or timber just at the point of rupture under a breaking load would produce to our knowledge of the comminuted subject of elasticity. The lightning flash can be investigated. Dr. Kornig, in a recent communication to the Physical Society of Berlin, states that he has photographed a cannon ball which was moving at a rate of 1200 feet per second. The ball was projected in front of a white screen and occupied one-fortieth of a second in its passage. Marey has photographed the motions of limping people, and has thus given surgeons the materials for a study of lameness. It is said, moreover, that photography often reveals incipient eruptive diseases which are not visible to the eye. Photographs taken by flash powders of the human eye, showing it dilated in the dark, give the oculist a new method of studying the enlarged pupil.

Cable Car Accidents.

Recently several persons have been hurt or killed by the cable cars in San Francisco, and the local papers as usual have set up a howl. "Undertones," in the Sunday Chronicle gives us apropos remarks:

The old gentleman sat in front of the dummy. There had been several accidents and he was nervous, especially when he saw a women get off the side and make a break to cross before the dummy. She thought better of it and stepped back, but the car did not go forward for a few seconds. She made a couple of breaks forward and stepped back again. The old gentleman became very nervous. Then, just as the bell rang and the gripman started the car, she made up her mind and darted across the track, just clearing the dummy. The old gentleman had jumped out of his coat, and when he saw she was safe he let out a very strong observation aloud.

"—— fool!" he said.

He turned and saw he had for his immediate neighbor a lady.

"I beg your pardon," he said; "I didn't mean——

"Don't mention it," said the lady. "My sentiments exactly."

The three-ton boat, La Liberdad, in which Captain Joshua Slocum, with his wife and two children, left Paranagua, Brazil, on June 24th, arrived at Staten Island last week after a voyage of 7000 miles. During the long voyage many severe storms were encountered, but the little boat, Slocum says, weathered them all like a dauntless sea bird. Several delays were caused by sickness on board.

In Ontario, the system of insurance, which is similar to that adopted by this Company, has been in highly successful operation for the past fifty years, and it has proved to be a great advantage to over-insurers in that it has reduced the cost of insurance, and it is estimated that now three-fourths of the insurance effected in Ontario is carried by mutual companies.

PERSONAL.

Items Telling of Movements of Well Known Persons.

Dr. Clarke, of Portland, and formerly of this city, passed through Victoria last night on his way to Ontario, where he intends remaining. Since going to Portland the doctor has accumulated considerable property, and he returns to his native heath with a good opinion of the western coast.

Jules Boucherat, senior member of the mercantile firm of Boucherat & Co., will leave for Paris on Tuesday next. Mr. Boucherat left Paris forty-seven ago and has never since been back. During his absence France has been twice a republic and once an empire. Louis Napoleon sprang up and for a time "flourished like a green bay tree," was cut down to the roots and perished with his dynasty. The Franco-German war changed the map of France and the commune revived in a modified form the horrors of the Reign of Terror before the better elements of society were able to regain the ascendency. Mr. Boucherat will indeed see mighty changes; but we since ely hope that they will not be of a nature to prevent him thoroughly enjoying his well-earned holiday after many years of honorable exertion in this province.

W. L. Cassack arrived from Vancouver last evening.

J. Parkinson, of Seattle, arrived in this city last evening.

W. H. Dorman, Deputy Postoffice Inspector, arrived home last night on the steamer Princess Louise.

A. B. Gray, J. B. Lovell and Capt. Collister arrived from the mainland last evening on the steamer Princess Louise.

Captain Wm. J. Waitt, for a long time connected with the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, and well known as a Puget Sound pilot, will succeed Captain Oliver, of the steamer City of Seattle.

Chief Carlisle, of the Vancouver Fire Department was in Victoria on Thursday. He left for home on this morning's steamer.

J. Bryden and wife came down from Wellington to-day and are at the Driard.

James G. Swan, one of the committee of Pt. Townsend to furnish the Senatorial Committee on Relations with Canada, with information, arrived from the Sound last evening.

There is a probability that the popular Capt. Carroll will again resume his trips to Alaska this summer.

Excursion.

Steamer Isabel will leave Turner, Beeton & Co.'s wharf at 6 o'clock tomorrow evening for Port Angeles via Port Townsend, returning on Sunday evening.

Confirmation.

During High Mass on Sunday morning His Lordship Bishop Lemmens will administer the rites of confirmation at the R. C. pro-cathedral. About thirty young girls and boys will be confirmed.

New Sidewalks.

The corporation is at present laying seven hundred feet of ten-foot sidewalk on Superior street, James Bay. Next week work will commence on a twelve-foot sidewalk on the south side of Yates street from Quadra street to the school reserve.

To Dispel Colds.

Headaches and Fevers, to cleanse the system effectively, yet gently, when costive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity without injuring or weakening them, use Syrup of Figs.

Celebration Notes.

Invitations have been extended to the Mayors and Councils of every city of any importance on the coast as far south as San Francisco and east as far as Winnipeg.

Mr. Harry Abbott, Supt. of the C. P. R. on the Pacific coast, has accepted the committee's invitation to be present.

An addition to the programme, and a worthy one, has been made by the committee. It is a bicycle race for local cyclists, to take place on the morning of the 25th.

It has been suggested that the city be decorated for the auspicious occasion. It would really give effect to the proceedings. Our American cousins make a specialty of this on the 4th of July.

Another Brass Band.

During the past two months Professor William Thompson, leader of the Queen City band, has been engaged in teaching a brass band composed of colored citizens. The young men will turn out, in uniform, on the Queen's Birthday. They are progressing most favorably and will perform at an entertainment to be given on the evening of the 24th. The band consists of twelve musicians.

The Loyal Scotch.

The recreation ground committee of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society, consisting of Messrs. A. J. Smith, J. Robertson, W. Lorimer, and R. Mitchell, have generously given the use of the spacious grounds of the Society to the Celebration Committee for holding the athletic sports on the 24th and 25th. Scotsmen are always found at the front on occasions of this kind.

An Abortive Election.

It has transpired since the poll was held on the tramway and loan by-laws, that a fatal error was made in fixing the hours of voting. The municipal statutes all require that voting shall take place from eight to four o'clock, whereas voting was fixed by municipal notice at from ten to four o'clock. There is scarcely room to doubt that the election will have to be gone over again before either the tramway company or the city can avail themselves of the generosity of the taxpayers.

"C" Battery Notes.

The flag at C Battery barracks is at half mast in memory of the gallant officer and sergeant of the regiment killed at Quebec. The officers, non-commissioned officers and men have telegraphed to have wreaths placed upon the coffins of their late comrades, and the battery has decided to go into mourning forthwith.

Sergt. W. Chamberlain is about to purchase his discharge from C Battery, having secured a situation in Seattle.

The Worst Unhung.

Mulago, the Spaniard sent up for trial at New Westminster, for committing a horrible crime on a child, has elected to be tried under the "Speedy Trials Act." The trial will take place on the 21st inst. Mulago, says the Columbian, is one of the worst villains unhung, and has a record of the worst kind. He has served a term in the penitentiary for attempted rape, and besides which he has served four or five terms in gaol for various other crimes. He is even too base and degraded to be allowed to associate with ordinary criminals.

The Jewelry Robbery.

Chief Stewart, of Vancouver, has returned home from Seattle without taking the two young thieves who robbed the jewelry store at Vancouver. He says he left them in prison with a fair prospect of getting two years in the penitentiary there. They refused to acknowledge their crime or to give any information as to the whereabouts of the stolen property. An information was accordingly sworn out against them by a police officer for having brought smuggled goods in the country, and should the goods be recovered Grassie will be able to get possession of them. Had the customs officer laid the information they would be forfeited to the State. Chief Stewart says the officials of Seattle were very courteous.

Attempt to Break Jail.

An attempt to break jail by cutting through the walls was discovered at the provincial penitentiary yesterday. The part of the building chosen by the prisoners for operations was the water closets, where at the rear of one of the seats the cement was removed so that five or six bricks of the inside row could be taken out and replaced again. When the cement had been removed the spaces around the bricks were filled with rags, paper, oakum, etc., and smeared over with tar to correspond to the black painted walls. A bricklayer was sent for on the discovery being made and the bricks cemented in position again. The wall is two and a half bricks in thickness so that the hardest portion of the work in piercing the wall was not over when the first row was removed.

B. C. Presbytery Meeting.

A pro-re-nata meeting of the Presbytery of British Columbia was held in the First Presbyterian Church, Vancouver, on Tuesday at 2.30 o'clock p. m., the Revs. P. McF. Macleod, T. G. Thomson, Thomas Scoular, R. Jamieson, E. D. McLaren and Alex. Dunn being present. The question of commissioners to the Assembly vice the Rev. D. Fraser of Victoria, and Mr. J. M. Browning of Vancouver, who are unable to attend, was discussed. The Rev. P. McF. Macleod was appointed instead of the Rev. D. Fraser and Mr. R. McGuire, of Brampton, Ont., instead of Mr. Browning. The application of a loan towards building a manse for the use of the Rev. Mr. Jaffray who will take charge of a parish in the North Arm of the Fraser River District, was agreed to and recommended. A general discussion on matters connected with the Presbytery followed, after which the meeting adjourned.

A Bathing House.

Messrs. Jones and Bardis, who keep a boat-house at Vancouver, have fitted up a bathing house, in good style, in connection with the boating branch of the business. The bathers' rooms are heated with a large stove, and keeps the building at a temperature of 60 degrees for the early morning bathers. Each room is curtained off, and is supplied with a mirror, seat, hat and coat hooks, and a shelf for small articles. The season ticket holders, which already number considerably over a dozen, are supplied with racks on which to keep their towels, combs, etc. Besides all necessary arrangements in the swimming line the firm have at present under construction a raft 37x28 feet, on which they intend to build a set of saltwater bath rooms, and which they expect to be ready in about a month's time. These baths will be both warm and cold. The water bottom has been thoroughly raked and is now an excellent one in every way and the most suitable for bathing. There is an excellent opening for something similar in Victoria, and here, where so many pleasure seekers are daily arriving, it is continually asked for.

C. P. R. Competition.

Manager A. N. Towne, of the Southern Pacific Railway, has furnished the Senate Committee on trade relations with some interesting figures on the effect of Canadian Pacific competition. He says that the steamers of the Canadian Pacific plying between San Francisco, Vancouver and Asiatic ports have succeeded in diverting from the old channels of trade, that is, United States lines, almost the entire cotton piece goods trade of the Eastern States, besides immense quantities of tea, silk, rice, gunnies, hemp, jute, and general merchandise.

Towne gives figures showing a rapid increase in this trade by the Canadian line. He states that the Southern Pacific and its connections have suffered a large loss of revenue through the Asiatic traffic being diverted by the Canadian Pacific steamers for transportation via Vancouver to and from points in the United States and Canada, which previously reached its destination via San Francisco. The loss to the Southern Pacific Company and its connections during the year 1888 on East bound business amounted to $272,000 on tea and $210,000 on silk, or a total loss of $495,500. For the year 1887 the American lines carried 16,333,824 pounds of tea, while for 1888 they carried but 13,687,565, a loss of 20 per cent. On the other hand the Canadian Pacific carried 9,900,962 pounds of tea in 1887, while in 1888 it carried 13,582,911, being a gain of 37 per cent. Every pound of tea thus carried was business which the American lines should have enjoyed.

Rates have been forced down under competition from 2 3-4 cents per pound in 1886 to 2.08 cents in 1887 and 1.73 in 1888. The loss in this connection alone amounted to nearly $660,000. On the shipments in raw silk it was probably $40,000.

MILLIONAIRE TOURISTS.

Everything Ready for the Seward Walsh Party Round North.

The Islander, under command of Commodore John Irving, with Capt. Hicks as pilot, will leave for northern waters tomorrow, calling at Fort Simpson with freight and seven fishing boats left behind by the Sardonyx. At Vancouver Dr. Seward Webb, president of the Wagner Car Company, and a party of New Yorkers will be taken aboard. This distinguished party expect to have the sole use of the steamer for ten days, paying therefore $450 per day. This does not include provisions and wine. The fastidious tastes of the party will be attended to by a corps of servants, and a specialty is their stables, which they themselves provide with their own cook. The Islander has been thoroughly cleaned both externally and internally, and presents a beautiful aspect as viewed to-day. The steamer returned from Nanaimo last night whither she had been to receive a new propeller and coal necessary for the round trip. To-day she was taking on ice for the use of the millionaire guests. It may be safely said, that with the beauties of Granville channel, Seymour Narrows and other narrows and picturesque waterways en route to Glacier Bay, the tourists will be more than pleased with the weird beauty of the North Pacific.

THE ELECTRIC TRAMWAY.

A Contract for Five Miles of Railway Soon to be Let.

The directors of the National E. T. & L. Co. are not allowing grass to grow under their feet and express the hope that within a fortnight they will be enabled to announce that a contract has been awarded for the construction of five miles of track within the city limits, the erection of car and power houses and the installation of an electrical plant for propelling the cars. Last evening Mr. F. H. Osgood, President of the Seattle Electric Railway Co., visited Victoria and was driven in company with several of the directors of the local company, over the streets proposed to be traversed by the lines. He inspected the steep grades of Douglas and Fort streets, and stated that they present no obstacle to the successful working of the electric system. Mr. Osgood went back to Seattle the same evening, but will return in a few days and have another interview with the directors. In conversation with a prominent member of the company yesterday a TIMES representative was told that there is every prospect of work on the lines being commenced early in July and completed by the 1st of October.

Twenty-Eighth International Convention.

The twenty-eighth international convention of the Young Men's Christian Association has just been held in Philadelphia, Pa., and was in many respects the most notable one of the kind ever held. There were 1600 delegates in attendance, representing all parts of Canada and the United States, also leaders in the work in Great Britain, Germany, Sweden and Switzerland. The first session was opened by Gen. O. O. Howard, the veteran Indian fighter, who was the first vice president of the last convention. At this session remarks were made by the foreign delegates. The first to speak was Mr. Robert Burns, General Secretary of the London Association. He also read a letter containing the congratulations of Mr. George Williams, President of the London Association and founder of the first Young Men's Christian Association in the world. The next speaker was Mr. Robert McCann, travelling Secretary for Ireland, who closed by saying that he brought with him the greeting of 6000 warm-hearted Irishmen, members of the Association in that country. Baron Von Stacck, of Berlin, and Carl Frier, of Stockholm, also gave short addresses. Mr. Humphrey R. Chamberlain, of Denver, Col., who was President of the Chamber of Commerce in that city, was elected president of the convention. At the close of the evening session a reception was tendered the delegates by the citizens of Philadelphia. It was held at the Academy of Fine Arts, at which there was a large attendance. On the second day among those present were Mr. H Grattan Guinness, the noted Christian worker of London, also Mr. Matthew Hodder, a life-long friend of Mr. George Williams.

The Pacific Northwest was represented by Mr. G. A. Charnock, general secretary at Vancouver; Mr. C. W. Bpers, of Portland; Mr. Fillmore Tenner, of Spokane Falls; and Mr. N. H. Jacks, travelling secretary for the Pacific Northwest.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

Meeting of the General Committee —Regatta at the Gorge.

A meeting of the general committee to make arrangements for the celebration of Her Majesty's birthday was held last evening in the City Hall.

The secretary, Mr. D. W. Morrow, read telegrams from the municipal boards of Winnipeg and Calgary thanking the committee for invitations to be present at the festivities.

A communication was read from Robt. Irving, agent of the C. P. R. Company, informing the committee that low fares had been arranged along the line from Calgary.

The Driving Park Association asked for the sum of $300 to be used in furnishing prizes for horse racing. The sum asked for was appropriated out of the general fund.

Mr. Rithet reported that a large number of contributors wished to have the regatta held at the Gorge.

Messrs T. J. Burnes, R. McIntosh and J. G. McCandless considered that Victoria harbor was the proper place to hold the regatta.

On motion it was decided to hold the boat races at the Gorge.

An extra sum of $50 was placed on the prize list to be given in a bycicle race for all-comers.

Mr. Joshua Davies, chairman of the ball committee, reported that Mr. Anderson, of the Clarence Hotel, was awarded the contract to furnish music and would make every arrangement for the celebration ball in Assembly Hall on the evening of the Queen's birthday.

Mr. C. Hayward, chairman of the printing committee, reported that a large number of programmes were ready for distribution.

A motion to allow all persons competing in the events a chance to retain their amateur standing by allowing them to select a medal instead of a money prize, was carried.

Hon. J. H. Turner suggested that Government street be illuminated with Chinese lanterns on the night of the 25th inst.

Moved and seconded that all entries for the regatta be made on or before Tuesday next. Carried.

The committee then adjourned.

A La Lonsdale.

Five men have left Winnipeg for the mouth of the Mackenzie river, where they expect to embark on a small vessel and sail westward along the coast of Behring Strait and thence southward along Alaska to British Columbia. It is said they have paid $10,000 to the Hudson's Bay Company, who provides most of their equipment, and they will take a stock of goods to barter with the natives along the Arctic coast of Alaska.

Commercial News.

Thirty thousand pounds of Montreal sugar arrived by the Princess Louise last night for a local firm.

Twenty-five cases of dynamite arrived from Hamilton yesterday.

The steamer Rithet brought a large miscellaneous cargo from New Westminster and way ports yesterday. It comprised, among other things, 4 mules, 3 horses, 21 lambs, 6 calves, 27 barrels of lime and 370 sacks of farm produce.

the sale of liquor is in a measure, prohibition. It is not only a question of educating our people properly but involves the election of men who will take advantage of every opportunity to advance the cause.

The clause as it stood was finally adopted almost unanimously. The clause in full reads as follows: "Resolved, that we the ministers and laity of this conference solemnly pledge ourselves to oppose by all constitutional methods, any government, political party, or individual member of Parliament, who shall directly or indirectly oppose prohibitory legislation." Another clause worthy of publicity runs as follows: "Your committee deplore the way the Sabbath is desecrated through the drink traffic and would urge upon the license commissioners and City Council that action be taken to close the saloons as well as the other places of business in the city from 7 o'clock on Saturday evening till 6 o'clock on Monday morning."

The entire report was referred back to the committee in order that additions might be made.

The president announced that the reports being tabulated the increase in the amount raised for missions was $864.11, the total sum being $34,428 78. The increase in membership for the year was 468, the total membership of the conference being 29,553. The communicant funds were all increased handsomely by the contributions of the people.

A resolution treating of the incorporation act of the Methodist Church, notice of which was given yesterday, was read, explained and unanimously carried in the conference.

The attention of the committee was called to several other objections to or omissions from the act, by Rev. C. Ladner, of Kamloops.

Rev. M. L. Rogers, of the Calvary Baptist Church, was introduced to the conference and expressed his fraternal greetings and good will.

Conference adjourned at 12 o'clock.

FROM THE FAR NORTH.

A Missionary who has not Been a Train for Thirty-Six Years.

From the Calgary Herald.]

The Herald was favored yesterday with a pleasing call from the Rev. Father Bowes, of the Oblate Order. The revd. gentleman was many years ago a resident of the city of Kingston, Ont., in the early days of his ministry, and remembers well Sir John A. Macdonald as a slender young practitioner at the bar. Thirty-six years ago Mr. Bowes left the Limestone City to become a Christian missionary amongst the aborigines of what is still a very remote part of Canada, even from a Calgary standpoint, and he has never been at what may be called the front during these years, until he arrived in Calgary from the north about two weeks ago. He had not seen a railway train during the whole time of his voluntary exile. At the time he made his long trip from Kingston to the scene of his mission work north of Edmonton, the only systematic means there was of traveling was by the Hudson Bay Co.'s canoe line, which made a voyage twice a year from Lachine, near Montreal, to Rupert's Land and the interior of British America, as this country of matchless resources was then called. During the 36 years devoted to the service of His Divine Master, Father Bowes has preached the Gospel at La Lac Lesse; Lac la Biche; St. Albert; Lac Ste. Anne and Edmonton. He not only preached the Gospel to the natives but he helped and taught them to build school houses. He taught school, built school houses and churches at many different points and finally a convent at Edmonton, the trifling distance of 200 miles north of here. The lessons taught the Indians by this missionary and others like him, have had a marked effect on the Indians of the north, who are, as compared with the natives in this part of the territory, very industrious. Many of them own snug little houses and have well cultivated farms and numerous cattle, and are not only civilized but Christianized. Father Bowes has come to spend some time in Calgary and its surroundings, and as Father Ledue explained it, "Help us to build our new church in Calgary."

Assessors at Work.

Messrs. Dalty, Dickinson and Northcote, are at present engaged in making a systematic round of the city, conferring with property holders and appraising real property and structures. So far the gentlemen have found only four empty houses, which speaks well for the city's stability.
